Question:

Please provide the number of the applications for leave to judicial review, the number of judicial reviews and the number of appeals against judicial review decisions in 2009, and their respective average waiting times. How many of those judicial review cases were legally aided?

Asked by: Hon. HO Chun-yan, Albert

Reply:

The information requested on judicial review cases in 2009 is as follows –

(a) No. of leave applications	144
(b) No. of leave applications with at least one of the parties being legally aided as at filing of application	33
(c) Average waiting time from listing to hearing of leave application*	28 days
(d) No. of appeals against refusal of leave	22
(e) Average waiting time from listing to appeal hearing in respect of refusal of leave	87 days
(f) No. of substantive judicial review cases	65
(g) No. of substantive judicial review cases with at least one of the parties being legally aided as at filing of substantive application	22
(h) Average waiting time from listing to hearing of substantive case	125 days
(i) No. of appeals against judicial review decisions	20
(j) Average waiting time from listing to appeal hearing	142 days

* A great majority of cases are disposed of on paper. While there are no available figures, it is our experience that they are normally disposed of on paper in about three days.

Question:

Please provide information on the establishment, strength and the expenditures of family mediators for the years from 2007-08 to 2009-10 respectively.

Asked by: Hon. HO Chun-yan, Albert

Reply:

The role of the Family Mediation Co-ordinator's Office is to act as a focal point for family mediation enquiries. The Office conducts information sessions on family mediation and reports the attendance of the parties concerned to the court. It also provides pre-mediation consultation and facilitates those parties willing to receive mediation service in selecting their mediators. The Office also acts generally as a liaison office and answers public enquiries. Mediations are conducted by mediators outside the Judiciary.

The Family Mediation Co-ordinator's Office is staffed by a Mediation Co-ordinator and clerical staff. There are no Family Mediators on the establishment of the Mediation Co-ordinator's Office. The Office's salary expenditures for the recent three years are approximately as follows –

	2007 – 08	2008 – 09	2009 – 10
Strength	1 Mediation Co-ordinator	1 Mediation Co-ordinator	1 Mediation Co-ordinator
	1.5 Clerk	2 Clerks	2 Clerks
Salary expenditure	$980,000	$1,250,000	$1,280,000

The change in salary expenditure in 2009-10 over 2008-09 is mainly due to staff changes and salary adjustment in 2008-09.

Please give the number of cases handled by family mediators in 2009-10.

Asked by: Hon. HO Chun-yan, Albert

Reply:

In 2009-10, the Family Mediation Co-ordinator's Office has organized 318 information sessions (including pre-mediation consultations) for 690 participants, and referred 170 cases (involving 340 parties) to the mediators in the private sector for mediation service. It is noted that some parties may choose to directly approach private mediators without referral. Mediations are conducted by mediators outside the Judiciary.

Question:

In respect of the average waiting times in the Labour Tribunal, the average waiting time from Appointment to Filing of a Case in 2009 was 11 days longer than that of 2008, representing an increase of over 60%, while there was only a slight increase of 1 day from Filing of a Case to First Hearing. What is the reason for that?

Asked by: Hon. NG Margaret

Reply:

There was an influx of cases in the last quarter of 2008 and first quarter of 2009 due to economic downturn. This led to a drastic increase in the number of appointments for filing of cases for those few months. As a result, the waiting time from appointment to filing had been lengthened despite the deployment of more Tribunal officers. Nonetheless, it was still within the target of 30 days.

To cope with the sudden upsurge of cases, the listing arrangements were enhanced so that more efforts and time were put in by the judicial officers to handle extra cases for a period of time. In addition, more cases were adjourned, settled and withdrawn before the first hearing in 2009 when compared to 2008. As a result, the average waiting time was only slightly increased for 1 day from Filing of a Case to First Hearing.

Question:

Regarding the civil cases in the District Court, the average waiting time from the Date of Listing to Hearing in 2009 is 19 days more than that in 2008, and the planned waiting time for 2010 is 120 days, while the number of cases handled by the District Court in 2008 and 2009 are more or less the same. Will the Judiciary inject additional resources to shorten the hearing time? If yes, what are the specific arrangements to be made? If no, what is the reason?

Asked by: Hon. NG Margaret

Reply:

The average waiting time for civil cases in the District Court increased because some judicial resources were deployed to help reduce the waiting time for the Family Court and the Lands Tribunal in 2009. Nonetheless, it was still within the target of 120 days.

Having regard to the current workload of the District Court, the Judiciary will inject additional judicial resources to the District Court in 2010 to strive to keep the average waiting time within target. It is planned that one additional deputy district judge will be appointed to the District Court to hear civil cases starting from April 2010 onwards.

Question:

With regard to the Support Services for Courts' Operation, the provision for 2010-11 as stated in the Analysis of Financial and Staffing Provision is almost 10% higher than that of last year. Please provide information on the distribution of creation and deletion of civil service posts and non-civil service contract positions under this Programme by ranks, functions and service divisions.

Asked by: Hon. LI Fung-ying

Reply:

In 2010-11, there will be deletion of 13 civil service posts and creation of seven civil service posts resulting in a net reduction of six civil service posts, and an increase of five non-civil service positions under or straddling Programme (2). These posts and positions are for enhancing professional support for major works projects, enhancing support services for courts' operation and rationalization of administrative support services. The net effect is that the changes will bring about a less than $500,000 increase in expenditure in 2010-11.

The increased provision of $22.4 million for Programme (2) in 2010-11 is mainly due to the filling of some vacancies, salary increment, and increase in requirement for hire of services and general departmental expenses.
